

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

TO ALL WHO BEAR THE HONORED NAME OF

REQUA,

THESE PAGES ARE RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED

BY THE COMPILER,

AMOS C. REQUA.

*"Only the actions of the just

PREFACE.

There is a tradition, with apparent ground of fact, that the identical name, REQUA, existed in France. Mr. J. M. Requa, of New York, says : that in conversing with scholars, they have frequently spoken of finding the name, Requa, in French writings.

Col. Henry Rutgers, of Rutgers Place, New York, said: that the Requa Family had large possessions in Paris, which he thought might be recovered.

Dr. Josephus Requa, of Rochester, N. Y., recently met a young lady of that place, named Requa, not of the Requa Family in this country, whose father, Alexander Requa, came from France. To verify the foregoing tradition would require an investigation of French records, which, for the present at least, must be left for other hands.

A. C. R.

Peekskill, N. Y., March 28, 1898.

OFFICIAL ORDER.

Adjutant Requa is to take command of a Company of Rangers consisting of 50 men of the Regiment of Militia commanded by Lieut. Col. Hammond, to continue in service for two months, unless sooner discharged, for the protection of the inhabitants against small parties of the common enemy, plunderers and freebooters, who infest the settlements near the lines in the County. Jonathan Knapp and Richard Peacock to be Lieutenants of the said Company, which with Col. Hallett's command is to be so disposed as best to answer the above purposes; and the officers of this corps are to obey such orders as they shall from time to time receive from the officers in the Continental Army commanding near the lines, and to whom they are occasionally to report their proceedings and to make regular and stated returns.

It being represented to his Excellency the Governor, that small parties from this and the neighboring States who assemble without proper authority have committed great abuses upon the inhabitants living near the lines, by plundering them of their effects, abusing their persons, and other practices contrary to the laws of civilized nations and the common dictates of humanity; the officers of this Company are to be particularly attentive not only in preventing their own men, but also in detecting, apprehending and delivering up to the civil officials of the County, all others who shall be guilty of those offences, reporting their names at the same time to the Officers commanding the Regiment of Militia to which they belong, (of citizens of this State) that they may be proceeded against for a breach of the General Orders of the 30th ult.

Given at Kingston, 16 Sept., 1779.

By order of his Excellency,

GEORGE CLINTON.

STEPHEN LUSH, Aid-de-camp.

The above order, on file in the State Library at Albany, N. Y., was no doubt directed to Joseph Requa, he having sometimes acted in the capacity of Adjutant; Adj. Isaac Requa being at the date given, a prisoner in New York.

THE FAMILY OF REQUA.

Part I.

The name Requa is no doubt a transformation. The English Patent Rolls, Westminster, mention the naturalization of Claude and John Equerie or Esquier, March 8, 1682. "Protestant Exiles from France in the Reign of Louis XIV." Agnew, London, 3d edit., Vol II., p. 47.

The Records of the French Church, New York, notice the decease of Jean (John) Equier, mariner, native of Tremblade, France, who died in the harbor, on a ship from London, December 23, 1689. "Collections of the Huguenot Society of America." Vol. I., p. 8.

The Records of the Dutch Church, New York, note the marriage of Mary Lescuye, (l'Escuier), of Bushwick, L. I., to Jan Sevenhoven, of Rochel, in the Dutch Church of New York, September 22, 1693. "Collections of the N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Society." Vol. I., p. 76.

The "Proceedings of the Huguenot Society of London," 1887-88. Vol. 11, p. 466, gives the name of Andre Requier as one of the patrons of the Protestant school at Westminster in 1768.

Dr. Baird in his "History of the Huguenot Emigration to America," Vol. II., p. 100, referring to the above, says in regard to the name Requa: "Perhaps originally Requier or l'Escuyer."

Family tradition as related by Abraham Requa, 1759-1843, and recorded by his grandson, Charles M. Requa, 1823-1865, says: Two brothers named Requa from Rochelle, France, came to America about 1690; one with a family, the other a bachelor. They were Huguenots driven out by Romish persecution. Just before reaching New York the husband and wife died, leaving an only son, Gabriel, about twelve years old. In the same ship came also a girl named Jeanne, of about the same age, a French refugee, whom Gabriel afterward married. They lived at New Rochelle, N. Y., and left an only son Glode. On arriving in New York, the bachelor brother left Gabriel and Jeanne, intending to go South prospecting, but was never heard from. He had with him a large sum of money belonging to the family.

This fact, together with the record of the French Church, may explain his sudden disappearance. The French Records, just referred to, say—John Equier died in the harbor, “shackled and bound.” Why shackled and bound? Was he entrapped, bound and murdered on the same ship which had brought them from England? It may be so. Truth is often stranger than fiction.

This tradition agrees with the English Patent Rolls of 1682, and with the French Records of December, 1689. Thus making Claude Equerie, who died at sea, the father of Gabriel; and making John Equier, who died in the harbor, the lost brother.

This view is further sustained by the fact that the names Glode, John and Gabriel, were perpetuated in the different branches of the family; Glode being another spelling of the French Claude. Hence the following:

No. 1.—Gabriel Requa, born at Tremblade, near Rochelle, France, about 1678, emigrated with his parents to England previous to March, 1682, and re-emigrated with them in December, 1689, to America, where he married Jeanne —, and left one son Glode. Nothing further is known of Gabriel; he may have died in early manhood; the record of those times is exceedingly meagre.

No. 2.—Glode, born about 1700 at New Rochelle, married, wife unknown, and left four daughters and four sons, as follows:

THE REQUA FAMILY.

PART II.

ISAAC REQUA.

THE FAMILY OF REQUA.

Part II.

NOTE.—To the Hon. M. D. Raymond of the Tarrytown Argus, Tarrytown, N. Y., the present compiler is greatly indebted. From his excellent articles, entitled, "Revolutionary Sketches of Philipse Manor," published in 1894, large quotations have been made.

The story of the Requa Family as related to Philipse Manor during the Revolutionary struggle, and subsequent to that period, is one of not a little interest. Although the migration of the Requas here was confined to a single family of that name, and that at a period not earlier at least than 1730, and after the settlement here under Frederick Philipse had existed for fifty years, from 1775 to 1784, they seem to have been a regnant family, furnishing their full quota of commissioned officers, and of rank and file in support of the patriot cause. Altogether, twelve of that name on this Manor, all that were of sufficient age to bear arms, were soldiers of the Revolution; four of whom were commissioned officers. But the Requas were not only stalwart patriots; they had the qualities that commanded confidence and success. They built docks, engaged in the river trade and were enterprising, public-spirited citizens. It is indeed inspiring to look at such a record, and it may well be cause for congratulation to all who bear that honored name, or are connected collaterally therewith.

As to the early history of the family in this country and on this Manor, it has been found difficult to make a satisfactory tracing, and to evolve the exact historical facts, verifying from the records the interesting family traditions, which very naturally differ somewhat as variously received through various sources, though all happily agree in the unquestioned claim of honorable Huguenot descent.

The late Charles M. Requa, a grandson of Abraham, and great-grandson of Daniel Requa, early of this place, who spent much time in making researches concerning the family, and who gathered a large amount of statistics, in the shape of family trees and other interesting data, and to whom the family is greatly indebted for services so rendered, left the following memorandum of a conversation, held by him with Mrs. Amy Delanoy, daughter of Capt. Glode Requa, about 1850 ; she being then nearly eighty years old. As will be seen, it differs from the former account as to the name of the immigrant, making Glode and Jeanne, instead of Gabriel and Jeanne, the founders of the Family in this country.

MEMORANDUM.

"The Requa family lived in Paris previous to their departure from that country (France), in consequence of the persecutions by the Romish church of all Protestants, Huguenots, as they were called. The family was rich in houses, lands and stocks ; but the persecution was so bitter that they fled in the night to save their lives, leaving behind the greater part of their property, which they could not convert into money. There were eleven other families which fled at the same time, and from the same cause ; they were strictly forbidden to read the Bible, or to hold religious meetings of any kind. Romish priests carefully searched every house which they imagined contained a Bible, or in which meetings were held. Some Bibles were concealed, but they were found, and taken away ; some leaves, however, were hidden under the bottom of a chair, in such a way that they escaped discovery for a long time.

The twelve families fled by night from Paris to Rochelle, where they all continued to live for a time, in close fellowship with each other. At length, intelligence from Paris reached the Romanists at Rochelle, and the houses of the Huguenots were watched. They would not discontinue their meetings, for they contended, that every man had a right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. But contention was in vain ; their persecutors were rich and powerful, and in consequence of the refusal of the Huguenots to submit, they were all condemned to be massacred on a certain night. From certain indications, they gathered, that evil was intended toward them; their houses were pointed out by passers by. Providentially, through the good offices of a friendly Romanist, they were warned of their danger and nearly all escaped.

"On the night previous to the fated night, the faithful band muffled the wheels of their wagons and stole away. They were discovered in going and were pursued, like the Israelites, to a river. Ten families got safely over, but two were overtaken and killed. The ten rescued families found a ship about to sail for America and took passage. Two brothers, named Requa, were of the number; one with his family, the other a bachelor; the one with a family was named Gabriel. Gabriel and his wife died of a fever on the passage, leaving an only son. On arrival at New York, Gabriel's brother engaged board for one year for his nephew whose name was Glode, and for a girl named Jeanne, whose parents had also died of the fever on shipboard. Gabriel's brother left them to go South, taking most of the money with him and intending to return for them if he liked the country. He never returned, nor was he ever afterward heard from. The son, Glode, afterward married Jeanne, and lived on Muddy Brook, now called Harlem River. Later, they moved to New Rochelle, N. Y., where a part of the family lived, until the war with Great Britain. Some of the family moved previous to the war to what is now called Tarrytown, on the North River, about thirty miles from New York, where many of the family now live, although they have spread over the country, as will be seen by reference to the family tree."

Elijah Requa, son of James, and grandson of Glode, Sr., in the application for a pension of Mrs. Henrietta Paulding Requa in 1847, deposes and says:

"That he was a resident of Tarrytown, and 73 years of age; that the name of his father was James, and of his paternal grandfather, Glode Requa; that the said Glode was the common ancestor of all the Requas heretofore or now living in Westchester Co., and so far as this deponent hath knowledge or belief, of all of the Requas heretofore or now living in these United States ; that he has often heard from his said father, and it is matter of family history, that the said Glode, the grandfather of this deponent, emigrated from Rochelle, in France, to the then Colony of New York, during some of the persecutions or severe measures against the Protestants ; that he first settled at New Rochelle, County of Westchester, and subsequently, and many years prior to the Revolution, moved over to the western shore of said County and purchased a farm on the Hudson about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Tarrytown ; that at his death the said farm descended to his eldest son, also named Glode ; that the male issue of his said grandfather consisted of four sons, whose names were Glode, John, Daniel, and James, the father of this deponent, and that all these sons remained residents of Westchester Co., and lived no great distance apart ; that the eldest, Glode, resided on the old homestead ; that John resided in the Town of Mount Pleasant, about one mile from Sing Sing, and seven or eight miles from Tarrytown ; that James and Daniel resided in the Town of Mt. Pleasant, (Tarrytown Heights,) about one or two miles east of Tarrytown, the latter upon a farm adjoining and east of the said James ; that John died without issue ; that the male issue of the other brothers was as follows :

Glode, Jr., had six sons ; to wit :—Isaac, the husband of Henrietta ; Gabriel, Samuel, Daniel, James and Glode, 3rd.

Daniel had four sons ; to wit :—Abraham, John, Daniel and James.

James had ten sons ; to wit :—Gabriel, Joseph, Daniel, John, James, Glode, William, Elijah, (this deponent), Isaac and Gilbert.

“The foregoing includes all the Requas in the male line who were living in the County of Westchester during the period of the Revolution ; that there were during the Revolution, as herewith shown, but two of the name of Isaac, one of whom was the eldest son of Glode and the other the son of James, the ninth son, and the younger brother of this deponent; that Isaac, the son of Glode, was an Adjutant in the Revolution, while the other Isaac was only an infant, the younger Isaac having been born on the very night on which the elder, Adj't Isaac, was taken prisoner.'

That the father of the first Glode was Gabriel seems substantiated by the fact that the name was perpetuated in the different branches of the family.

Glode, Sr., it is said, was very Frenchy in his talk, and hard to understand on account of his foreign speech. For two generations the Huguenots of New Rochelle used the French language. That he occupied the farm which afterwards descended to his eldest son, Glode, Jr., is unquestioned; and that was the early home of the family on this Manor. This farm embraced the present Jay Gould property and the John T. Terry property. When Glode Requa, Sr., came to this Manor does not clearly appear, but probably soon after 1730, though the old tax list of 1732 does not contain his name; and yet, in the marriage record of his children Jannitie, James, John and Daniel, in the old Dutch church, the birth places of all of them is given as Philipsburgh; the first named, Jannitie, married April 10th, 1751, being the first public record of the family found as yet either on this Manor or in this county.

No reference is made to the wife of Glode, Sr., nor to the date of death of either of them, their place of burial being unmarked; but, doubtless, it was in the old Dutch church-yard, though neither of them nor their children were members of that church.

The religious trend of the Family should be noted. The faith of the fathers, which drove them from their native land, was the inheritance of their children and children's children. Not a Tory among them, nor a criminal, hardly an indigent person to this day. Early associating themselves with the various Christian churches, the record of their unselfish lives and happy deaths is written on their tombstones, and rehearsed in family story.

Bishop Asbury, one of the first Bishops of the Methodist church, says, in his Journal, "July 23, 1802,—I came to Captain Requa's by surprise; but was not, therefore, made the less welcome."

Glode Requa, Sr., and his wife had eight children, four daughters and four sons: Susan, who married Wolfert Acker, afterward of Newburgh, and buried at Tarrytown, N. Y.; Mary, who married McFarlin or McFarden of Tarrytown, (Gabriel and James McFarden of Capt. Gabriel Requa's company, were probably her sons;) Margaret who married Samuel Husted of Hempstead, Long Island; Jeannette, who married Jacob Stymets, also of Capt. Requa's company; Glode, James, John and Daniel.

GLODE REQUA BRANCH.

Glode, Jr., or Capt. Glode Requa, as he came to be during the Revolution, was a well-defined figure upon our local horizon; a distinct personality, the date of whose birth and death, and place of residence, and burial, distinctly appear. He was born May 4, 1727, and died December 9, 1806. Buried in the old Dutch church-yard. He married—date not known—Amy Dean, daughter of Thomas Dean, and sister of Sergt. John Dean of the Revolution. He was a member of the Committee of Public Safety in 1776, and was early appointed to the command of a Company of Militia on this Manor. Of the services so performed by him, frequent mention is made in the applications for pension, of those who served under him. The following accounts, copied from the books of the State Treasurer, show various sums paid to him and his command for such service:

April 19, 1777, paid Capt. Glode Requa for his company, £60.14.7

Sept. 17, 1778, paid to Capt. Glode Requa for his company, £83.16.

He was for one year a prisoner in the old Sugar House Prison, New York, but the date of his capture does not appear, as he died before the general pension act was passed. He was, like many others, obliged to remove his family for safety, as stated by Peter Van Woermer, his neighbor, to Collaberg, which is the present Croton. He took title from the Commissioners of Forfeiture, to the valuable farm of 296 acres, which he had previously occupied, and also to four lots of one acre each, in the present village of Tarrytown, and at his death left a valuable estate.

Glode Requa, Jr., and his wife Amy Dean had six sons and three daughters: Isaac, Gabriel, Mary, Samuel, Daniel, Margaret, James, Amy and Glode.

Isaac Requa, the eldest son of Captain Glode Requa, born 1758, was a soldier of the Revolution, and was commissioned as Adjutant of Colonel Hammond's Regiment, June 16th, 1778, having previously been a Lieutenant in Capt. Jonas Orser's Company. He also served under his father, Capt. Glode. The date of his being taken prisoner appears from the following account rendered against the State, which was duly audited :

The State of New York, Dr.

To Isaac Requa, to his pay as Lieut., and Adjutant, for the time I was in captivity, from January 31, 1779, until March 10, 1780.....	£244.17.9
---	-----------

His commission as Adjutant is on file with the pension papers of his widow, at the Pension Office in Washington.

Isaac Requa, subsequently to the Revolution, became a very prominent man in this county. He was Supervisor of the Town of Greenburgh for six successive terms, from 1787 to 1792, inclusive; was Justice of the Peace, for nearly 20 years, and from 1810 to 1820 was an Associate Justice, or side Judge, sitting at the County Courts, and was commonly known as Judge Requa. He married Henrietta, the second daughter of General William Paulding, and sister of William Paulding, Jr., who was Mayor of the City of New York, and successfully engaged in business at his residence, adjoining the residence of General Paulding, near the Requa Dock at Tarrytown. He accumulated a large estate for those times, and was a highly respected citizen. He died in February, 1826, leaving no descendants.

Henrietta Requa, widow of Adj. Isaac Requa, in her application for pension, says, that she was married to Isaac Requa on the 12th of April, 1784, when she was eighteen years of age. Justice Requa married them.

Gabriel, second son of Capt. Glode, was born Jan. 9, 1760, and died Oct. 8, 1809. He was a soldier of the Revolution; was in Capt. Dean's Company, and was for two months a prisoner in the hands of the enemy. He was engaged largely in the carrying trade on the Hudson River, in company with his cousin, William Requa, and his son-in-law, Stephen Van Wart. Their lines of transportation extended from Albany to New York. He and his family were active members of the Methodist Church. His will, dated July 1, 1809, is recorded at White Plains. He married Elizabeth Martling, and had three sons and three daughters,—Amy, Maria, Daniel, Julia, James and Gabriel. Amy married Stephen Van Wart and died, aged nineteen years, greatly mourned. She, probably, was not living two years later; for in the following entry, copied from the Book of Audited Accounts, in the State Library at Albany, her name is not mentioned.

"State of New York, Dr.

"To Mary and Daniel Van Wart, children of John Van Wart, late Lieutenant in Lieut.-Col. Hammond's Regt., for seven years' half-pay, he having been slain on the field on the fourth of March, 1782.

Eliza Lawrence Requa died in her 41st year. The epitaph on her tombstone reads:

"Farewell kind husband and my children dear,
Oh, serve the Lord, for he will soon appear;
The time is short, till we shall meet again,
With Christ, to share the glories of his reign."

James, son of Capt. Glode, married Elizabeth Heleker, and was drowned with his youngest brother, Glode, in the Hudson river.

THE DROWNING OF JAMES AND GLODE, sons of Capt. Glode Requa, was a tragedy, the memory of which has been perpetuated in the family. It occurred while crossing the Hudson, either to or from Piermont. One account says by the upsetting of the boat in a severe storm ; another story is that they were struck by lightning, probably on the river opposite the old homestead. An old double tombstone, now fast crumbling to decay, perpetuates the fact of the death of James and Glode Requa, both on the 12th of August, 1789, the age of the former being given as nineteen years, six months, and twenty-seven days, and of the latter, fourteen years, one month, and twenty-two days, but the cause of their death does not there appear. Not only is that fact well preserved in the family traditions, but it is also found of record in the Clerk's office of the County of Westchester, as follows :

At Court of Oyer and Terminer, held in November, 1790, Geo. Combs, Esq., Justice, acting as Coroner, returned an inquisition by him taken on the bodies of James Requa, Glode Requa, Jr., and Braboy, a slave, by which it appears that they were drowned in the Hudson, by the upsetting of a canoe which they were in, Aug. 12, 1789.

It seemed at first, when the family tree showed that the above James Requa had descendants, that there must be a mistake somewhere ; but an examination of the records of the old Dutch Church showed a James Requa, married to Betsey Heleker, as the tree indicated, on the 28th of June, prior to the 12th of August on which he was drowned. He was then in his twentieth year, and early marriages were common at that period. And then, more than six months after his death, a son, James, was born to him, who has many descendants.

James Requa, son of James who was drowned, married first, Mary Ruton, and, afterward, her sister, Letitia. For thirty years he was engaged in the river trade as captain of a market sloop. His first wife, Mary, died in New York, and was buried in a vault beneath the Bedford Street M. E. Church, of which she was a worthy member. Her son, Alexander, writes : "I well remember hearing my dear mother say in her last moments :

"Jesus can make a dying bed, Feel soft as downy pillows are !"

She was unable to repeat the remaining lines.

James Requa and his second wife, Letitia, moved to Chatfield, Minnesota, where he died at the home of his son, Alexander. By his first wife he had twelve children : by his second wife, two children : Amy, Isaac, William, Abram, Henry, Rachel, Elizabeth, Emeline, James Augustus, Alexander, John J., Benjamin, Mary and Samuel J. His grandchildren were seventy in number. William, Emeline and John J. died young. Amy married Samuel Johnson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and had eight children. Samuel M. Johnson, of 48 Wall Street, New York, is her son. Isaac, married first, Elizabeth Whitehead, of Brooklyn ; second, Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkley Booth, of Pottsville, Pa. By his first wife he had two daughters : Mary, who married Wm. Cornwall, of Brooklyn ; and Adrianna, who married James Stevenson, Supt. of Agencies, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York.

Abram Requa, son of James and Mary Ruton, whose picture appears herewith, was born at Croton Landing, educated in New York, and became a teacher in Irving Institute, Tarrytown, where he married Elizabeth P. Lyon, sister of the principal, William P. Lyon. Later, he went to Baltimore, Md., and edited the Baltimore Clipper. He was offered the Consulship at Honolulu, which he declined. After the war he returned to New York and became associated with the Five Points Mission, Methodist. He was financial agent of this institution for the twenty-one years preceding his death, devoting his entire time to the work of the Mission.

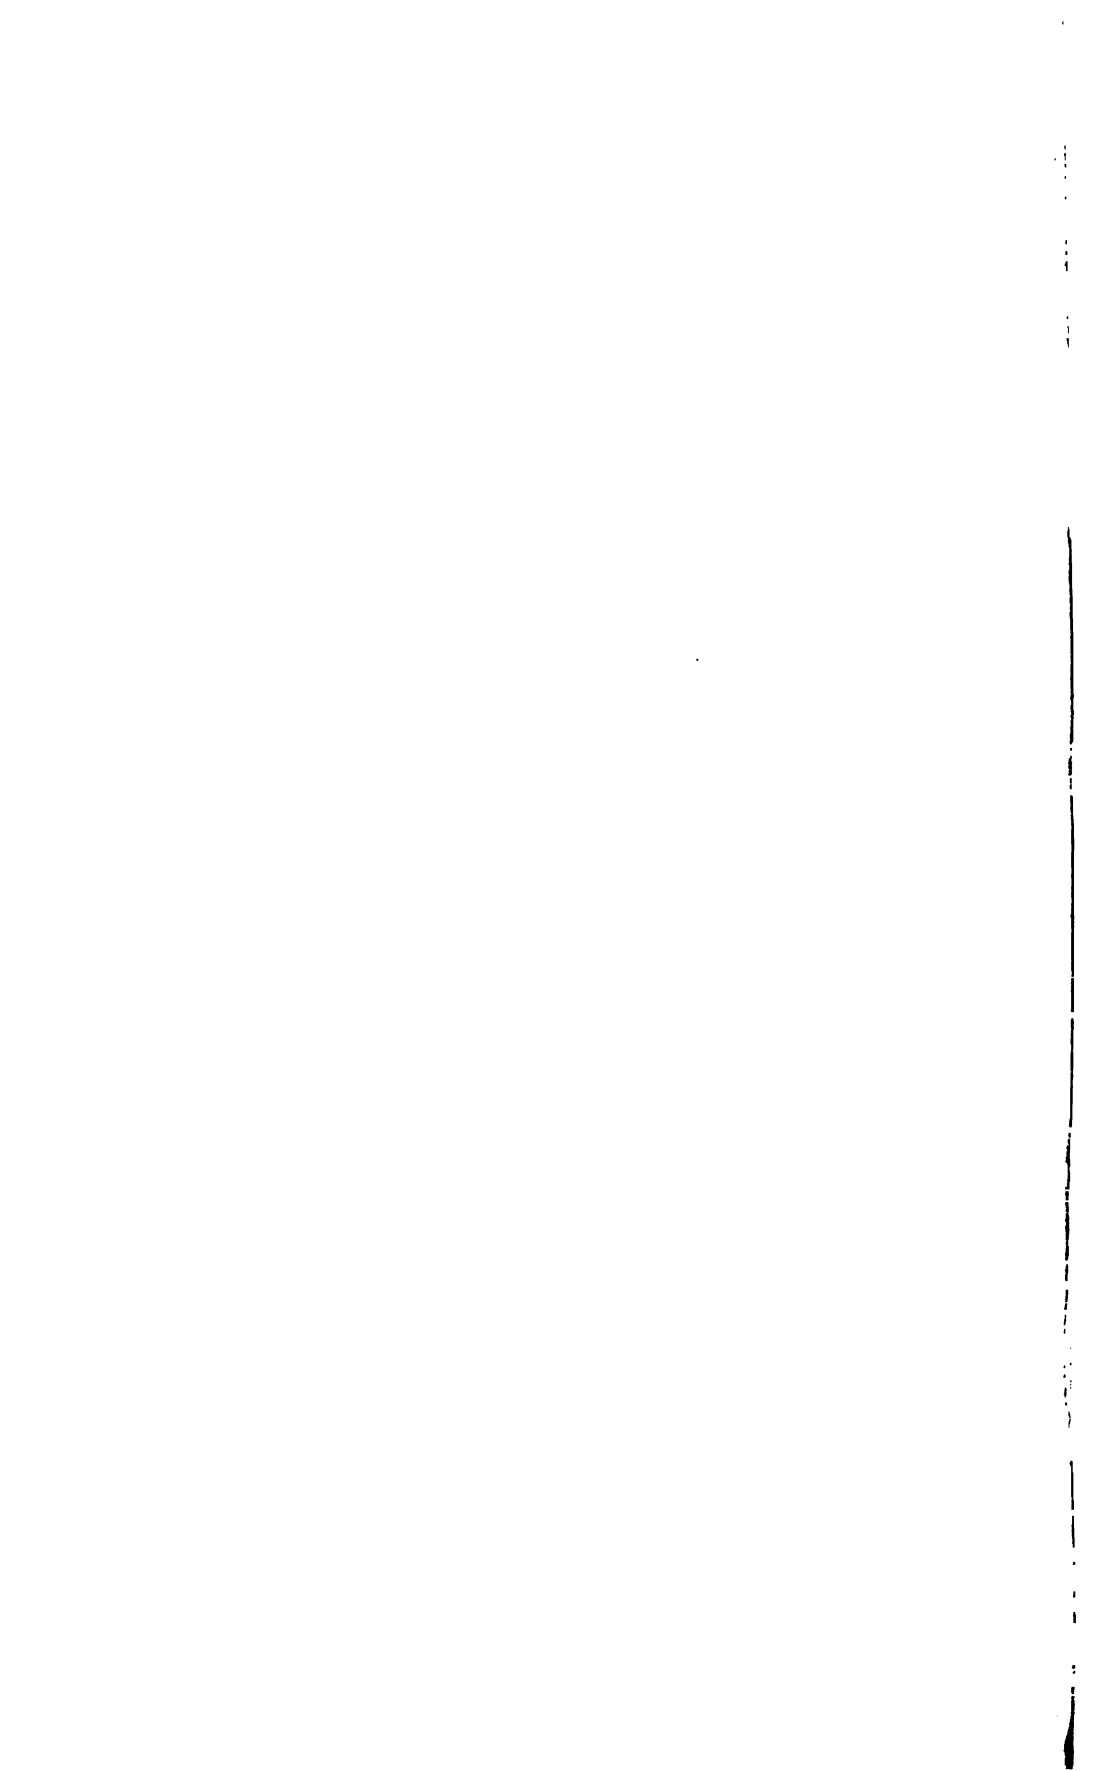

The following incident, characteristic of the man, is furnished by his daughter, Mrs. Alice Requa Reeves, of Brooklyn, N. Y. : During the Civil War, a young man of his acquaintance was condemned to be shot, for desertion from the Union army. Taking the order for the young man's death and the heart-broken mother, Mr. Requa came to President Lincoln to plead her cause. Mr. Lincoln, after a patient hearing of the case, took the fateful order and said—"I will put it in this pigeon hole." It was never taken out, and the young man's life was spared.

Abram Requa and Elizabeth Lyon had five children,—Alice, Charles H., Lilian, Elizabeth and Florence. Lilian and Elizabeth died young. Alice married Robt. C. Reeves, seedsman, of New York. Charles H., married Ida A. Lyon and has a daughter Ethel M. Charles H. is official stenographer of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, N. Y. Florence A., youngest child of Abram, resides with her mother in Brooklyn.

Rev. Henry Requa, son of James, was for twenty years a member of the Wisconsin Conference of the M. E. Church, and served one term as presiding elder. At the breaking out of the Civil War, he raised a company of soldiers and reported for duty at Milwaukee, but was rejected by the surgeon. When the Christian Commission was formed, he was invited to take work under it and immediately prepared to go, saying as he left,—“I cannot go south as a soldier, but perhaps I may live to do the boys some good.” In eight weeks his lifeless body was brought back to his church at Ripon and buried. His daughter, Mrs. Charles D. Wilson, writes—“Chaplain Randall, an old friend and fellow-laborer, was with him in his last moments. Just before the end came, with a tremulous voice, he began to sing :

“Oh, sing to me of heaven, When I am called to die !”

His voice failing, the Chaplain took up the chorus, “There’ll be no sorrow there.” A monument was erected at Ripon to his memory.

Mr. Requa married Caroline Johnson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and had nine children,—Charles, Emeline, Abram, Alzuma, Henry J., James M., Celia, William H. and Mark M. Charles, Abram and Alzuma died young. Emeline married William McArthur and resides in Lanesboro, Minn. They have eight children.

Mark M., youngest child of Rev. Henry, married Myrtle Anderson and lives in Livingston, Mont. He is bookkeeper in the office of the Northern Pacific R. R. Co., and has one son, Worrath Anderson Requa.

Rachel Requa, daughter of James and Mary Ruton, married James E. Sebring of New York, and removed to Washington, D. C., about twenty-five years ago. Her husband was in the Sixth Auditor's office until his death, Sept. 18, 1894. She died January 5th, 1897, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David M. Doremus, in Mount Vernon, N. Y.

They are buried in Glenwood Cemetery, Washington.

ELIJAH REQUA.

JAMES REQUA BRANCH.

James Requa, the second son of Glode, Sr., born 1729, married Maritie Acker, daughter of Wolfert Acker, Sr., Dec. 20, 1752; probably, was married at the Tappan church, as the marriage is recorded there, as well as in the old Dutch church records.

When she died is not known, nor how many children she left, but her death must have been prior to Nov., 1766, as the following, copied from the records in the Register's office of Westchester County, testifies :

"James Requa and Rebecca his wife, of Philipse Manor, a blacksmith, date of Nov. 3, 1766, conveyed to William Ascough, a certain house and lot of land being at Brown's Point, in the town of Rye, containing four acres and ten rods ; consideration £130."

The above suggests the interesting query as to whether James Requa had not, for a period at least, resided after his first marriage, and up to the time of his second marriage, in the town of Rye ?

Possibly, that property was the patrimony of his second wife. Certainly, the grave of his first wife is not to be found in the old Dutch churchyard, neither does his second marriage appear in the old Dutch church records.

The above is also of interest, as being the first transfer of property, by or to a Requa, that appears in the old records, as far as has been found either in New Rochelle, this county, in New York City or at Albany. And so, James Requa was a blacksmith, as well as Justice of the Peace, Supervisor, soldier and farmer. He was also a member of the Committee of Public Safety, and the father of a numerous family, consisting of ten sons and three daughters. Surely, he must have had a vigorous, virile manhood, and have possessed a well-equipped, well-balanced character and strong personality.

He was a Justice of the Peace prior to, and during the continuance of the Revolution, of which he was a staunch and influential supporter ; and although he was only a private soldier, subject to be called out by frequent alarms, his house, as appears by the testimony of his son, Lieut. Joseph, was burned down by the enemy and a reward was offered for his capture. But those things had very little influence with such stern and true patriots as James Requa, except that they tended to strengthen their determination and increase their activity.

A significant item appears in the books of the State Treasurer, as follows: Nov. 7, 1776,—To cash paid James Requa for transporting poor at New Rochelle, £3.40s.

Why acting in such capacity there? Does it not indicate a former connection of the Requas with that place? It would seem so. At that time there was no proper town government in New Rochelle, other than that under Tory domination, and these dependents, so helped from that town by him, were doubtless patriot refugees.

At the Town Meeting held on Philipse Manor, the 7th day of April, 1778,—for, notwithstanding the turmoil of the Revolution, the annual town meeting was held by these sturdy patriots, as the records tersely state, “as usual,”—James Requa was chosen one of the Overseers of the Poor. The following year, April 6, 1779, he was chosen Supervisor of the then Philipse Manor, or Manor of Philipsburgh, as it was commonly called, being the second supervisor, as the records show, who was elected under patriot domination; Joseph Paulding having been the first one so chosen, the previous year. The records show that James Requa received $25 for his said services as Supervisor.

In this connection it is well to note, that at the same Town Meeting held in 1779, not only was James Requa chosen Supervisor, but his son, Lieut. Joseph, was elected town clerk, as he had been the previous year; another son, Capt. Gabriel, was an assessor, his brothers, John and Daniel, were appointed overseers of highway, and his brother, Capt. Glode, a fence viewer. So, that, not only on the field, but in civil life, the Requas were at the forefront of affairs.

The services of James Requa, Esq., were in frequent and constant demand during the Revolution for the performance of the marriage ceremony ; there being no clergyman on the Manor at that time, and Squire Requa being especially felicitous in the performance of such service. His record of those marriages, preserved as it was in his family Bible, would be invaluable, and should be searched after until found.

Justice James Requa was one of the original members of the Baptist church at Sing Sing, and was one of the deacons elected at its organization, Nov. 12, 1790. His brother, John, was probably also a member of that church, as appears by a bequest in his will.

James Requa took title from the Commissioners of Forfeiture to the following real estate, as bounded on the book of Records and map of M. K. Couzens, Esq. :

" Requa James, Dec. 6th, '85, A. S. 76, 170 acres ; N. W. by Matthew Farrington ; N. by Daniel Requa ; E. by John Requa ; S. E. by Isaac Reed ; S. W. by Wm. Davids ; as now possessed by said J. R.

" Aug. 3rd, '86, A. S. 128, 1 acre at Tarrytown ; N. by road leading to landing ; E. by George Combs ; S. by David Storm ; W. by Daniel Martling ; as now possessed by said J. R."

The will of James Requa, dated Oct. 24, 1811, and proved May 13, 1818, recorded at White Plains, is as follows :

WILL OF JAMES REQUA.

" In the name of God, Amen.

I, James Requa, of the town of Mt. Pleasant, in the county of Westchester and State of New York, farmer, being in a perfect state of health and sound in mind and memory, but far advanced in years, calling to mind the mortality of man's body, and that it is appointed unto men once to die, do make and ordain this to be my last will and testament. First: I commend my soul to God who gave it, and my body I commend to the earth from whence it came, to be buried in a christian-like manner at the discretion of my executors ; and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it has pleased God to bless me, in this, I give and dispose of it, manner and form following :

It is my will and I do order, that all my lawful debts and funeral charges be first paid. It is my will and I do order, that after my decease, all my estate be disposed of in manner and form following, to wit : I give and bequeath unto my son Joseph Requa, the sum of $125. I give and bequeath unto my son John Requa, $275. I give and bequeath unto my son Elijah Requa, $125. I give and bequeath unto my son William Requa, $125. I give and bequeath unto my son Isaac Requa, $125. I give and bequeath unto my six grandsons, Gabriel, George, Minard, James, Austin and Joseph, children of my son Gload Requa, the sum of $550, which said sum shall be put out at use, and the interest arising therefrom shall annually be applied by my executors, for the support of my son Gload's family, and the principal to be by them paid to the said children respectively, as they severally accomplish their full age of twenty-one years, in equal distribution ; but if any of the said children shall die before they arrive at full age, their portion shall be equally divided among the surviving ones. I give and bequeath unto my grandson John K. Requa, son of my son Gilbert Requa, and to such child or children as shall lawfully issue of his body, the sum of $550 ; the principal and interest to be applied in the same way and manner by my executors, as is above directed to be done respecting my son Gload's family. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Jane Martine, the sum of $125. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Sarah Chatterton, the sum of $500. I give and bequeath unto my negro man, 'Bra'boy,' the sum of $50, and his freedom, after my decease. I give and bequeath unto my black girl, Lena, her freedom after my decease. Lastly, all the rest of the money arising from my estate, if any there be, shall be equally divided among all my children.

Signed :

JAMES REQUA.

John Requa and James Foshay, Executors.

James Foshay, Sarah Graham and Rebecca Requa, Witnesses."

Three sons and one daughter of James Requa were already dead. Rebecca, second wife of James Requa, died March 24, 1811. On her tombstone in the old Dutch churchyard is this memorable inscription: "The loving wife, tender mother and sincere christian." James Requa died Sept. 9, 1817, in the 83th year of his age. His children were as follows: Gabriel, Tamer, Joseph, Daniel, John, James, Glode, William, Jane, Elijah, Sarah, Isaac and Gilbert.

Gabriel, eldest son of James and Maritie Acker, was Captain of one of the Militia Companies in Col. Hammond's Regt., and did good service therein. He was commissioned as Ensign, Sept. 20, 1775.

The following account of the arrest of a spy, in this vicinity, by him and his brother Joseph, in April, 1777, while yet a Lieutenant, is of interest:

Court held in Peekskill, Friday, April 18, 1777.

"Anthony Hill was brought before the Court and charged with holding a treacheous correspondence with the enemy and being employed by them for the purpose of enlisting men into their service. The prisoner on his arraignment pleads not guilty. Lieutenant Gabriel Requa being sworn, says—That he lives two miles back of Tarrytown; that about a week ago, as he was working by his house, he saw two men crossing the lots; that suspecting them he went into the house, took his gun and followed them into the woods; on hailing them one ran away; the prisoner stopped; when he came up with him he asked him where he came from; the prisoner answered from Kings-Bridge. He then took him to his father's house, and there searched him in the presence of his brother;—found about him six dollars and one shilling in silver, some coppers and two silver spoons; also a warrant torn in pieces, the same now produced.

“Joseph Requa, being sworn, says—That he was at his father’s when his brother brought in the prisoner, that he asked him where he came from. He answered, from Long Island to New York and from thence. Said also that he belonged to Captain Cain’s Company in the enemy’s service—that he had been in their service four months. On asking if he had any letters, he answered, no; but on the evidence offering to search him, he pulled out of his pocket a warrant, the same as now produced, torn in pieces. The evidence asked him how he came to get that warrant. He said he took it to get out, for he could not get over the Bridge without it; said he took it solely to get out, and never intended to go back or act in consequence of it. The evidence then asked him why he did not deliver himself up to the first guard; the prisoner answered he knew of no guard;—he also said he had put the warrant under a stone intending to leave it, but that the man who was with him, persuaded him to take it with him. The prisoner further said that the other had a warrant also, and had, a night or two before, carried down twenty-three men; the prisoner told him he came from Kings-Bridge, the 10th of April, about half an hour before sun-set; he was taken the 11th of April.

“The Court, having considered the evidence and defence of the prisoner, are of opinion that he is guilty of the charge, and do therefore sentence him to be hanged by the neck until he is dead.

“BEN. WALKER, Judge Advocate.

“PHILIP CORTLANDT, President.”

In a return of the Militia on this Manor, date of June 22, 1778, Capt. Gabriel Requa reports eight commissioned and non-commissioned officers in his Company, and sixty-one men of the rank and file. May 27, 1780, he was allowed £2,065 for himself and men as payment for services rendered by his Company, for the year ending that date. The original roster of Capt. Requa’s Company is in the possession of Prof. Bashford Dean, of Columbia University, New York. His death, at the age of 31 years, is attributed to wounds and exposure, though the exact date of his death is not known. His widow was appointed administratrix of her husband's estate, May 7, 1784.

Gabriel Requa married Elizabeth Oakley, of White Plains, and left three children,—Tamer, Mary and Isaac. Tamer was unmarried. Her will, dated Aug. 11, 1830, is recorded at White Plains. She died, February 9, 1831. Mary married Elkanah Mead and lived near Sing Sing. Robert G. Mead of Sing Sing is their son. Isaac married Harriet Hait, of Digby, Nova Scotia, and had two children,—Cornelius Oakley and Adeline. Isaac died when his children were young, and his widow, marrying again, moved to Connecticut. Then occurs one of the strange incidents of life. Cornelius, son of Isaac, married Ann M. Conklin of New York; he also died when his children were young. These four children—Samuel D., Hattie E., Cornelius O. and Aitkin F., grew up without knowledge of their father's relatives, until discovered by the historian. The three brothers, Samuel, Cornelius and Aitkin compose the firm of Requa Brothers of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, doing business there as tea and spice merchants.

Tamer Requa, daughter of James, Sr., married Nathaniel Garrison, who was a soldier of the Revolution here, and afterward lived at Peekskill; buried at Tarrytown.

Joseph Requa, son of James, Sr., in his application for a pension, date of Aug. 4, 1832, states:—"That he was born near White Plains, Westchester County, N. Y., Aug. 17, 1758; that he commenced his military career early in 1776, some time before the British took possession of New York; his Captain was William Dutcher, Col. Thomas Thomas, commanding the regiment. He was with Washington at the battle of White Plains. After the American army left, the inhabitants had to defend themselves; at that time Col. Hammond being in command. He continued on the lines until 1780; in the course of which time he commanded a company, having been commissioned as Lieutenant by Governor Clinton. In the year 1780 he was wounded in three places and taken prisoner. While a prisoner, Col. DeLancey offered a captain's commission in the British army to be handed him in twenty-four hours, if he would accept. The declarant replied that he was a prisoner; whereupon Col. DeLancey told him he might speak his mind freely; then this declarant told Col. DeLancey, that having drawn his sword in defence of his country he was determined not to lay it down until America was acknowledged to be free and independent. The Colonel then replied, 'Then you will be at war as long as you live!' Lieut. Requa answered, 'No, about two years will decide the business.' He then remarked that this declarant was 'an active enemy of the British,' and asked him if he would not like a parole? to which Lieut. Requa replied, 'Well!' 'Whereupon he gave me my parole,' and soon after Governor Clinton secured his exchange and called him into active service by ordering him to muster the northern troops at Albany; and, afterwards, he was ordered to take command of a Company at Tappan, where he was under General Washington's command for some time; from thence was sent to the northward, to Albany and the Mohawk river and stationed at Fort Plain, at the time when Butler and Brandt and the British and Indians defeated Col. Brown and killed him and a number of his men; whereupon the same day reinforcements under General Tenbroeck arriving, the enemy were attacked and a number of them killed and they routed. The declarant belonged to Col. Malcolm's regiment; but was in the action under the command of Col. Dubois, which engagement took place in October, 1780. If he remembers rightly, his company took thirty-nine prisoners whom they lodged in the Poughkeepsie Jail. He discharged his company at King's Ferry, and the next day there was a severe snowstorm, in which he traveled home to his father's house. This declarant had the command of the American Light Horse when the British headquarters were surprised and their commander, Major Barmore, taken prisoner with nineteen of his men; he was the first that entered the house and ordered them to surrender. This declarant had one brother killed, Daniel, three brothers wounded and taken prisoners, and five brothers of them were in action together at one time. His father's house, a new one, was burnt to ashes, and he (the father), being a Justice of the Peace and a Committeeman, it was said that a liberal reward was offered for his capture, but he escaped. Then 74 years old, a resident of the town of Baltimore, Green County, Aug. 4, 1832."

Lieut. Joseph Requa's commission is on file with his pension papers at Washington. Leonard F. Requa, of New York, says: My grandfather, Joseph Requa, as near as I can learn, removed from Tarrytown in 1790, and settled on a farm midway between New Baltimore and Coeyman's; the farm-house overlooking the Hudson river. Grandfather was highly respected in the community by all. His wife was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Their house was the stopping place of the Bishops and many of the noted ministers of that church. It was customary for his neighbors on the 4th of July to come at sun-rise and salute him. This was done for many successive years. He died in 1839, and was buried in the family burial plot, on a beautiful rise of ground on the west bank of the Hudson.

Joseph Requa married Theodocia Mead, daughter of Jacob Mead, of Tarrytown, and had twelve children,—Nathaniel, Rebecca, Garret, James, Jane, William, Isaac, Henry M., Maria, Gilbert, Caroline and Julia. Generous and hospitable by nature, she was unwearied in any effort that could give pleasure or comfort to her friends. With her children she was a strict disciplinarian, striving always to inculcate in them the love of order that was so strongly characteristic of herself. A sincere believer in the faith of her fathers, she strove to teach her children also to "hold fast to that which is good." Surely the worthy descendant of an honored line.

The children of Lieutenant Joseph Requa worthily sustained the honor and integrity of their parents. Garret, James, Isaac and Henry M. were grocery merchants in Albany; William and Gilbert were farmers.

John Requa, son of James, Sr., was a soldier of the Revolution. In his application for a pension, he says: Being out on a scout at North Castle on the 7th of January, 1781, he received a wound in his leg from a musket-ball and was at that time 17 years of age. He married Mary Knapp and had ten children. Frances married Jacob Van Wart and lived at Tarrytown. Harriet married John Bloomfield and lived in New Jersey. Huldah married John C. Huyler of New York. The town, Requa, near the mouth of that river, was undoubtedly named for him. He was elected County Clerk of Siskiyou Co., Cal.; was unmarried. Harriet, daughter of James B., married Col. Thomas C. Daniel Requa, son of James, Sr., at the age of 19 years, gave his life for his country. He took part in the attack on Fort Independence in January, 1777, and in 1781 was mortally wounded in action. No marble marks his early grave, but Dr. Thatcher in his Military Journal, dated Crompond, March, 1781, thus honors his memory :

"A gentleman volunteer, by name Requaw, (Daniel), received a dangerous wound and was carried into the British lines ; I was requested by his brother to visit him, under the sanction of a flag of truce, in company with Dr. White, who resides in this vicinity. This invitation I cheerfully accepted ; and Mr. Requaw (probably Joseph Requa), having obtained a flag from the proper authority and procured horses, we set off in the morning, arrived at Westchester before evening, and dressed the wounded man. We passed the night at Mrs. Bartow's, mother-in-law of Dr. W. She has remained at her farm between the lines during the war, and being friendly to our interest, has received much abusive treatment from the royalists.

"The next day we visited our patient again, paid the necessary attention and repaired to a tavern, where I was gratified with an interview with the much famed Colonel DeLancey, who commands the Refugee Corps. He conducted with much civility, and having a public dinner prepared, at the tavern, he invited us to dine with him and his officers. After dinner, Colonel DeLancey furnished us with a permit to return with our flag ; we rode ten miles, and took lodgings in a private house. Here we were informed that six of our men, having taken from the refugees thirty head of cattle, were overtaken by forty of DeLancey's corps and were all killed but one, and the cattle retaken.

"In the morning breakfasted with a friendly Quaker family, in whose house was one of our men who had been wounded when four others were killed ; we dressed his wounds, which were numerous and dangerous. In another house we saw four dead bodies, mangled in a most inhuman manner by the refugees, and among them, one groaning under five wounds on his head, two of them quite through the skull bone with a broad sword. This man was capable of giving us an account of the murder of his four companions. They surrendered and begged for life, but their entreaties were disregarded, and the swords of their cruel foes were plunged into their bodies so long as signs of life remained. We found many friends to our cause, who reside on their farms between the lines of the two armies, whose situation is truly deplorable, being continually exposed to the ravages of the tories, horse thieves and cow-boys, who rob and plunder them without mercy; the personal abuse and punishments which they inflict are almost incredible."

James Requa, son of James, Sr., was a soldier of the Revolution, was wounded and taken prisoner, though he was but 18 when the war closed. He died at 30 years of age, of yellow fever. He married Mary Teller and had three children,—Frederick W., Margaret and Catharine.

Frederick W. married Juliet Field of Peekskill, and had William Clements, Adaline, James F. and Louisa A. Only the youngest was married. She married William Emile Field, and left one son, Fred R. Field. Captain Fade Requa, as he was called, owned a large property in Peekskill, and sailed a market sloop from that village to New York more than forty years. He was President of the village of Peekskill in 1839, and gave his name to one of its streets. His residence is now the property of the Helping Hand Hospital.

Margaret, daughter of James and Mary Teller, married David Fowler, of Yorktown, and had two sons and one daughter. Catharine, youngest child of James and Mary Teller, died in the West Indies, whither she had gone seeking health.

Glode Requa, son of James, Sr., married Judith Comb, daughter of Captain George Comb, and had eight sons,—Gabriel, George, Minard, James, Austin, Leonard, Joseph and John.

Gabriel, son of Glode, married Esther Hammond, of Tarrytown, and had five children,—Mahala, William Hammond, Georgiana, Eliza J. and Martha. Mahala and William Hammond died young. Georgiana married Halstead Briggs, of Armonk, N. Y.; Eliza J. married, 1st, William H. Cox ; 2nd, David P. Cox of Unionville, N. Y. ; Martha married David Dayton of Armonk, N. Y.

George, second son of Glode, is said to have been a man of rare loveliness of character. He went as a young man to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he married Sarah T. Clapp, by whom he had two daughters who died young ; his wife also died. In 1826 he went to Union Mission, Fort Gibson, Ark., where his cousin, Rev. William Comb Requa, was engaged in missionary work. The next year he married Mary Harmony Austin, of Harmony Mission, Papinsville, Mo., and engaged in the work of that Mission. Miss Austin's parents had gone west from Vermont as missionaries to the Osage Indians, and were so engaged in missionary work. She was a cousin to Rev. R. S. Storrs, of Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1832, the missions being disbanded, George and Rev. William Comb Requa moved their families to Butler, Bates County, Mo., where they entered Government land and settled. During the Civil War both families were forced to leave their homes and seek protection in Kansas. Their houses were burned and much of their property was laid waste and destroyed. Five sons of the two families were in the Union Army.

Schuyler was an honored minister of the M. E. Church, a member of the Philadelphia Conference. In the Civil War he was Chaplain of the 13th Regiment, New York Volunteers. The bursting of a shell caused permanent deafness which compelled him to lay down his beloved life work. For many years he resided at Ocean Side, Long Island. His biographer says of him: "A man of singular purity of life." He was instantly killed by the cars at Springfield, L. I., July 30, 1894. He married Mary H. William Requa, 7th son of James, Sr., whose picture appears as frontispiece to this volume, was a prominent figure at Tarrytown, both in church and State. Methodism in all this region owes much to his wise counsels and active support. He gave the land for the first Methodist Church at Tarrytown, and was a member of its first Board of Trustees. He was farmer, storekeeper and also engaged in the river trade, building and sailing sloops. His old memorandum book, still preserved, is a model of neatness and correct method. In 1815 he was Supervisor of Mt. Pleasant. In the years 1815-16-18-19 he was member of the State Assembly. In 1820-21 he was County Clerk of Westchester Co. Rev. George Rockwell, a resident of Tarrytown, says: "I think he was one of the best men I ever knew; one of nature's noblemen; respected by every one that knew him." At the time of his death his pastor, Rev. J. W. B. Wood, wrote: "The venerable William Requa died in Tarrytown, N. Y., March 6, 1863, aged 93 years. He was converted in 1801 under the ministry of Rev. J. B. Matthias. For 60 years, his license as exhorter was annually renewed; for 58 years he served the church as steward and a working one; for 26 years he was class-leader, loving and beloved. In the church, in the world, even in public political life, as legislator, County Clerk, etc., year after year did his fellow citizens continue to honor him with proofs of their undiminished esteem. Thus, blameless and harmless, a son of God without rebuke, shining as a light in the world, lived and died William Requa."

A tablet to his memory was placed in the old White Plains Church. Hon. William Requa married Mary, daughter of William Hunt, of Tarrytown, and had three children,—Thomas H., Alexander and Caroline. Alexander and Caroline were unmarried.

Thomas H. moved to Kingston, formerly Esopus, N. Y., and engaged in freighting. His father's freighting lines to Albany, no doubt, acquainted him with this place. His son, Charles W., of Chicago, writes: "My father, Thomas H., was engaged in the transportation business at Kingston, N. Y. Like his father, he was a very conscientious man, and a strict observer of the Sabbath. When his vessels were loaded on Friday, he almost invariably held them until Monday, to avoid being on the river on Sunday. He was always a leading member of the Methodist Church." Thomas H. married Harriet Smith, of Kingston, and had three children,—William H., John Smith and Charles Wesley.

William H. married Cornelia A. Doty, of New York, and was killed by accident in Boston, leaving two daughters,—Mrs. Horace B. Derby and Miss Caroline Requa, both of Albany, N. Y.

John Smith, son of Thomas, married Sarah B. Wood, of High Falls, Ulster Co., N. Y., and moved to Middleburgh, N. Y. He was prominently identified with the religious and business interests of his town, and at his death, September 27, 1895, resolutions of respect were adopted by the official board of the M. E. Church, and by the order of Good Templars, of which bodies he was an esteemed member.

John Smith Requa and his wife had twelve children, of whom only three are living,—William Arthur, Alice May and Albert Emery. William Arthur is a member of the firm of J. H. Cornell & Co., hardware merchants, Middleburgh, N. Y. He married Anna E. Bouck and has two daughters,—Sarah B. and Jessie Aletha. Alice May is teacher in the High School of Middleburgh, and Albert E. is engaged in insurance at the same place.

Charles W. Requa, whose portrait appears herewith, youngest son of Thomas, married Katharine Bruyn, of Ulster County, N. Y. They lived for a time in Albany, N. Y., where their children were born. In December, 1873, they moved to Chicago, Ill., where Mr. Requa engaged in the grain commission business. For twenty years he has been a member of the Board of Trade of that city. His sons, William Bruyn and Charles H., continue the commission business on Sherman Street under the firm name of "ReQua Brothers." Charles W. Requa has three children,—William Bruyn, unmarried; Charles Howard, who married Alice Haven, daughter of Hon. Luther Haven of Chicago, and has a son, Haven A., and a daughter Katharine; Antoinette K., only daughter of Charles W., is married to Henry Willis Bryant, proprietor of Bryant and Stratton Business College, Chicago.

Jane, daughter of James Requa, Sr., married James Martine. She is mentioned in her father's will.

Elijah Requa, son of James, Sr., whose picture appears opposite page 21, lived many years on the homestead at Tarrytown Heights. He married, 1st, Eustatia Comb, daughter of Captain George Comb of Tarrytown, and reared a large family. In 1830, he moved to Cayuga County, N. Y., where his first wife died. Later, he returned to Tarrytown and married, 2nd, Mrs. Catharine Romer. They lived for a time on the Thomas Boyce farm, near Elmsford, and afterward moved to Main Street, Tarrytown, where he died in his 96th year. His house is the present Police Headquarters. For many years he was elder in the Greenburgh Reformed Church, and, at the time of his death, was elder in the Second Reformed Church of Tarrytown. A man of unblemished christian character. Among those who united with the old Dutch Church in the winter of 1816-17, were a number of his children, who afterward became members of the Presbyterian Church. Elijah Requa and Eustatia Comb had ten children,—William Comb, Nathaniel, Hetty, Elizabeth, Ann, Clara, James Hervey, Jane, John Wesley and Sarah. William Comb and Nathaniel were twin brothers. They were in the war of 1812.

Rev. William Comb, whose picture is here given, studied at North Salem Academy, N. Y., and went out in 1820, under direction of the Presbyterian Board, as missionary to the Osage Indians at Fort Gibson, Ark. Washington Irving, in one of his works, pays a high compliment to his former neighbor and friend Rev. William Comb Requa, whose mission station he visited in one of his excursions to the far west. Two years later, in 1822, Rev. William Comb married Susan Comstock, by whom he had two children. In 1832, the mission was disbanded, and Mr. Requa removed with his family to Butler, Bates Co., Mo., where he took up government land, being allowed a bounty for his services in the war of 1812. In 1833 his first wife died; and, in 1837, he married Jane Montgomery, who lived only one year. In 1840 he married Sarah A. Nutting, by whom he had nine children. He was farmer, physician and preacher, having erected a church in which he held services on the Sabbath.

During the Civil War, his church and buildings were burned, and his family were compelled to seek safety in Kansas. Mr. Requa enjoyed a long and eventful life. Born under the administration of Washington, he outlived both Lincoln and Grant. A soldier of the war of 1812, he also suffered much in the War of the Rebellion. From the classic halls of North Salem Academy, N. Y., he volunteered to go as teacher and physician to the Indians on the frontier. Parts of the New Testament he translated into the Osage tongue, and gave twelve years of his early life to exclusively missionary work.

His biographer writes : " A leading trait of his character, was his conscientious performance of duty. Being for many years the only physician, and almost the only minister for many miles around, he was kept fully employed often by night as well as day, and no call was ever neglected. It is to be hoped that he was paid for his medical services, for he has often been heard to say that one dollar was all that he ever received for preaching. Yet his preaching appointments were all met. The love of Christ constrained and compelled him to labor on, till obliged by old age to simply wait the coming of the Master." Mr. Requa died, in 1886, in his 92nd year ; having practiced as a physician and preached the gospel sixty years. His living children, with one exception, reside in Bates County, Mo. They are all members of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. William Comb Requa's children were as follows : William Nathaniel, Emily, John Newton, Sarah J., David Brainerd, George Nutting, Sophia, Annie, Justin Edwards, Henry Doddridge and Elijah Comb. Y., and afterward moved to Janesville, Wis. Their son, Edward, was educated at, and became Professor in, the State University at Ann Harbor, Mich.

Army Aid Association of New York, is her son. He says of his mother that "she was baptized in the old Dutch Church at Sleepy Hollow in 1817, and was a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church for over seventy years." She died at Newark, N. J., in her 84th year, and is buried in Orange Cemetery, New Jersey. Her daughter, Miss Mary E. Ketchum, has been engaged in city missionary work in Newark for more than thirty years.

James Hervey, son of Elijah, whose picture appears in Part I, married Mary Ann Norris, daughter of a sculptor in New York. Her father, it is said, in fashioning the cherubs for the decoration of Trinity Church, New York, took his little daughter for the model. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Jay Requa, says of her: "She was the most lovable, the kindest, sweetest, gentlest and most forgiving woman I have known." About 1837 they moved to Fort Wayne, Ind. In 1840 they removed to Bates Co., Mo., where he taught the first school in that vicinity. He was elected successively, School Commissioner, County Judge and State Legislator. The first Edward Norris, Robert McBride and Henry Laurens died in infancy. Austin, son of James Hervey, was unmarried and was killed by accident in Mississippi.

Hon. John Jay, son of James Hervey, whose picture is here given, was County Assessor of Vernon County, and in 1892 was elected to the State Legislature by the largest majority ever given in that county. They lived many years in Greenburgh, and for a time in western New York; are buried in the old Dutch churchyard, Tarrytown. They left three daughters,—Frances, Augusta and Jane. One of the daughters, Mrs. W. H. Lester of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., has in her possession an autograph deed given by James Requa and Rebecca, his wife, to Augustus Van Cortlandt in the year 1800.

John Wesley, youngest son of Elijah and Eustatia Comb, married Susan Archer of Tarrytown, and moved to Fort Wayne, Ind. He died about 1860, leaving two children,—Amelia C. and Charles Augustus, neither of whom were married.

He was a man of property and influence, a member of the Baptist Church. His will, dated February 24, 1853, is on record at White Plains. He died August 17, 1857; his wife died March 13, 1859. They left no children. Mrs. Susan Leggett, still living in Tarrytown, is their adopted daughter.

William, Elijah and Isaac Requa, sons of James, Sr., were devout christian men. William was Methodist, Elijah, Presbyterian, and Isaac, Baptist. They frequently visited each other in later years, and after battling over disputed points of doctrine, always closed their interviews with "a word of prayer."

Gilbert, youngest son of James Requa, Sr., was wounded in the war of 1812. The records of the U. S. Pension Bureau at Washington, state: "That he was granted a pension on account of a wound in the arm, received near Fort George in upper Canada on September 13, 1813, while serving as a private in Captain Myer's company, in the 13th Regiment of U. S. Infantry. He enlisted on June 18, 1812, and was discharged in June, 1817." He married Mary Banker, of Tarrytown, and had three children,—Mary W., John K. and Elijah. John K. is mentioned in his grandfather's will. No other trace of this family has been found.

NOTE.—By the kindness of Franklin Couch, Esq., Supervisor of the town of Cortlandt, we have in our possession the original commission of Hon. William Requa, as Clerk of the county of Westchester, dated at the city of Albany, June 8, 1820, sealed with the official seal and signed by Hewitt Clinton, Governor of the State of New York.

JOHN REQUA.

John Requa, the third son of Glode Requa, Sr., married Aeltie Acker, daughter of Abraham, and grand-daughter of Wolfert Acker; she being, therefore, a niece of her sister-in-law, Maritie, wife of James Requa, Esq., May 15, 1758, according to the old Dutch Church records, it being stated in connection therewith that both were born in Philipsburgh.

He had evidently lived on a farm adjoining to and east of his brother Daniel at Tarrytown Heights, now Pocantico Hills, prior to the Revolution, but he took title from the Commissioners of Forfeiture to a farm about one mile east of Sing Sing, which, as appears from the following description, had, prior to that time, also been in his possession :

“Requa, John, Dec. 6th, 1785, A. S. 72, 96 acr. N. W. by Wm. Haight and John Smith, E. by W., Acker and John Oakley, S. by Barnett Delamater and W. by Marvil Garrison, as now possessed by said J. R.”

He was also a soldier of the Revolution, enrolled in Capt. Gabriel Requa's company. He is mentioned in the application of Benjamin Acker of Mt. Pleasant, as taking part in the capture of British prisoners at Sparta, near Sing Sing. The muster roll of men raised for Colonel Samuel Drake's regiment date of July, 1780, has the following description of him :

“John Requa, Philipse Manor, blacksmith; complexion dark, eyes blue, hair dark brown, haith (height) 5 ft. 9.”

His name does not appear on the U. S. pension rolls, his death having occurred before the general pension act was passed. John Requa died May 28, 1812, aged 80 years, 9 months and 24 days. His wife died the same year, aged 78 years. They are buried in the old Dutch churchyard. Her name appears as Olive on the tombstone. They left no descendants.

John Requa's will, dated September 14, 1810, gives to his wife, Olive, one-third; to Margaret Brown, £100; to Polly Sniffen, £100 ; to Rebecca Requa, daughter of Daniel, £100 ; to John Requa, Rebecca's brother, £150 ; to John Requa, son of James, Sr., £100 ; to Rachel Storms, wife of Thomas Storms, £25 ; to Baptist Church of Mt. Pleasant, two shares, $50 each, in the Farmer's Association of Mt. Pleasant. Daniel Requa, son of Captain Glode, was one of his executors.

DANIEL REQUA BRANCH.

Daniel Requa, the fourth and youngest son of Glode, Sr., was born on Philipse Manor, June 5, 1735, and married Maritie Martling, who was born December 27, 1739, date of March 24, 1759, as appears in the old Dutch Church records. He lived at Tarrytown Heights, present Pocantico Hills, his farm joining that of his brother James to the eastward, and between the farms of James and his brother John.

The house in which Daniel Requa lived was not far from the fountain by the roadside erected by the widow of Burbank Roberts, east of the present railroad station, and on the southerly side of the Bedford road. It was burned in the winter of 1892. The property now belongs to Mr. Lewis Roberts. M. K. Couzens, Esq., gives the boundaries as deeded by the Commissioners of Forfeiture, as follows :

“Requa, Daniel, Dec. 6th, 1785, A. S. 78, 288 acr., N. by Wm. Fushee. E. by John Requa. S. by James Requa and Matthew Farrington. W. by David Conklin, as now possessed by said D. R.”

Daniel Requa was Sergeant in Capt. Gabriel Requa's company and was taken prisoner by the enemy. The manner of his capture and release is referred to as follows :

“Sergeant Daniel Requa, a man of delicate constitution, was seized as a prominent rebel and confined in the Sugar House, New York, where he remained until he was exchanged for a British officer said to have been captured by his son Abraham. Only for the delicacies furnished him by his friends, Daniel would have perished in prison.”

The following petition, copied from the original on file in the Manuscript Room, State Library, Albany, N. Y., gives the time of his captivity, and approximately, the date of his release :—“To the Honorable, the Assembly of the State of New York: Daniel Requa and John Drake, being refugees and having met with many losses and disappointments by the ravages of a cruel foe, petition for that assistance without which we must greatly want.

"Your petitioners have suffered nearly twelve months' imprisonment; and our families, consisting each of eight, have been for a great part of the time in the power of the enemy, whose depredations have been frequent. Believing, gentlemen, your generosity to be as great as your goodness, be pleased to interpose your kind offices between us and ruin. And your petitioners will ever pray.

Signed

DANIEL REQUA.

JOHN DRAKE.

In Assembly, read and referred, 18th June, 1781."

In a petition of the inhabitants of Philipse Manor—"To the Honorable Legislature of the State of New York:" dated January 29, 1779, asking that, "in case of confiscation, they might have the refusal to purchase their respective farms at the price of unimproved lands—," we find the names of Glode, James, John, Daniel, Isaac, Gabriel, Capt., and Joseph Requa."

Among the signers of a petition from the patriots of Philipse Manor—"To the Honorable Legislature of the State of New York:" presented July 30, 1784, and asking that, "a speedy sale of the forfeited lands may be ordered—," appear the names of Glode, James, John, Daniel and Abraham Requa, tenants of the aforesaid forfeited lands.

About the year 1795, Daniel Requa, with his wife and younger sons, moved from Tarrytown to New Paltz, Ulster County, N. Y., where he bought a farm on the Paltz River in the Gilford Tract. This farm lay at the junction of the Shawangunkkill with the Wallkill or Paltz River. The Deyo family lived near. These were the oldest houses in that part of the county. Daniel's son John had already moved to the Huguenot settlement at New Paltz and purchased of his wife's uncle a farm near by. The stone house in which Daniel Requa lived is still standing, bearing the date "Sept. 26, 1799." Here Daniel Requa and his wife died and were buried in a family burying ground. Daniel Requa died in October, 1801 ; his wife, Mary Martling, having died the 23rd of March, 1800.

The inventory of Daniel Requa's estate, taken November 26, 1801, and signed by Tyerk Van Kuren, Levi Deyo and Selah Tuthill, is on file with the county records at Kingston, N. Y. The farm, containing 97 $\frac{1}{2}$ acres, was sold to Selah Tuthill of New Paltz, by deed dated February 24, 1804. Abraham Requa was administrator. Daniel Requa and Mary Martling, his wife, had four sons and four daughters,—Abraham, Jane, John, Susan, Margaret, Mary, Daniel and James.

Abraham Requa, eldest son of Daniel, enlisted as a Revolutionary soldier, May 1, 1776, when he was 16 years old and continued in the service until the close of the war. His company, under Captain William Dutcher, was engaged in the building of Fort Independence in the summer of 1776, and remained there until that post was evacuated. He was afterward with his company at the battle of White Plains, where they occupied a position on the west side of Morton's mill pond. In the winter of 1776-7 he was stationed with about sixty others, under Captain Sybert Acker, at the houses of Peter and Cornelius Van Tassel on the Saw Mill river road. Captain Acker was wont to tell in later years that when he called for volunteers from the militia on Tarrytown Green, in presence of the Tory, Col. DeLancey, the second and third men to respond, in face of strong opposition, were Requas ; John Odell being the first.

Abraham Requa was with Capt. Daniel Williams in the defence of Young's House, Christmas eve, 1778, when Capt. Williams and a part of his men were taken prisoners. He was also in the engagement at Young's House, February 3, 1780, when thirteen men were killed, and Lieutenant Colonel Thompson, six officers and eighty-nine men were made prisoners. Afterwards he was in a foot company commanded by Lieutenant Richard Peacock. He was near at hand when André was captured at Tarrytown and was present at his execution at Tappan. March 4, 1782, he was one of a company of volunteer horse, under Captain Honeywell, who attacked Col. DeLancey's corps of refugees at Morrisania and captured a lieutenant and thirty prisoners. In this attack on the Tory refugees, Lieut. John Van Wart, son-in-law of Captain Glode Requa, was killed, and Abraham Dyckman, one of the brave Westchester Guides, was mortally wounded. Abraham Requa served in the regiments of Col. Thomas, Col. Hammond, Col. Luddington, Col. Morris Graham and Col. Aaron Burr. These facts are gathered from documents on file in the U. S. Pension Bureau at Washington.

During the war, Abraham lived with his parents at Tarrytown Heights, on the Bedford road. On the morning of September 23, 1780, when he had gone out with his musket to patrol the roads (his father being then in prison), a strange horseman was seen passing the house. Abraham's mother immediately ran out and called to her soldier-boy, but he was beyond her reach. That horseman was André; who, a little later, was captured by the trio of militia men,—Paulding, Williams and Van Wart. At the execution of André, so gallant a young officer, many brave men turned away their faces and wept. While Abraham Requa was never taken in battle, his heart was captured in a march through a part of Dutchess County, now Putnam. Bethia Hopkins, daughter of Captain Solomon Hopkins of Fredericksburg, now Carmel, was the fair maiden who made the capture.

“Peace hath her victories, no less renowned than war.”

They were married October 18, 1782. Bethia Hopkins was a lineal descendant of Stephen Hopkins of the Mayflower.

After the war, Abraham bought one-half of his father's farm at Tarrytown Heights and built, on the Bedford road, a house; probably the one burned in the winter of 1892 on the Lewis Robert's property. In the spring of 1794 he moved his family in wagons to Fishkill, Dutchess County, where he bought a farm. In December, 1794, he bought a farm of 100 acres in the suburbs of Peekskill. He afterward sold that farm to Abraham Depew, grandfather of Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, and bought the farm in Yorktown on which Major André slept the night before his capture. There he passed the remainder of his days. No one delighted more than he in rehearsing stories of the war, and no one had a more strict regard for truth. His trusty firearm, a British musket captured in the war, is now in the possession of his grandson, Edwin Requa, of Yorktown.

Abraham Requa was Supervisor of the town of Yorktown in 1811, declining to be a candidate for re-election. His home, his family and the industries of his farm were his delight. His death at the age of 84 years was tragic. Preferring to draw his pension in person and sign with his own hand, he prepared to go to Peekskill, four miles away. In order to make his ride more comfortable, his large arm chair was set in the wagon, and he was placed in it. Unfortunately the chair was not tied; the sudden starting of the horses tilted the chair, and with an exclamation, "Oh!" he fell to the ground. His neck was broken. An old man full of days and honors. He sleeps in the old burying ground of the Yorktown Presbyterian Church at Crompond, near the remains of his brave companions in arms—Col. Green, Major Flagg and Abraham Dyckman. His death occurred Nov. 1, 1843; and that of his wife, Bethia Hopkins Requa, January 29, 1849. It has been a labor of love to place on record the heroic deeds of these heroic men and women. Persecution might drive them from their home and rob them of their liberty; the Atlantic might roll between them and the land they loved; but no privation nor punishment could quench in them the indomitable spirit of right and justice.

It is a pleasure also to find their descendants of the fifth and sixth generations, holding places of honor and responsibility in the communities where they dwell. Not the least compensation of the work has been, the enlarged acquaintance and correspondence, which it has opened with many valued friends, otherwise unknown. To all who have aided the work in any degree, we extend a brother's salutation.

Here are gathered a few outlines of family history. But could the joys and griefs, the hopes and fears, the purposes and plans of each individual life be portrayed, what breadth and depth and tone would be added to the picture. Eternity alone can supply the proper lights and shades. That the lights may not grow dim, nor the shades prevail, is the earnest hope of the compiler.
